PREFACE

The 2022 Pre-primary Education Syllabus replaces the 2012 syllabus. This syllabus is derived from the reviewed pre-primary and primary Education curriculum that started in 2019. The process of this curriculum reform involves various educational stakeholders specifically the members from pre-primary education level. It focuses on preparing the child for all areas of development, including mental, physical, visionary, social and emotional development to prepare them to join primary education.

The Syllabus is based on the requirements of the Zanzibar Education Policy, which goes hand in hand with educational reforms in line with the needs of the 21st century. The Ministry of Education and Vocational Training (MoEVT), through the Zanzibar Institute of Education (ZIE) has ensured that the process of preparing the syllabus, has considered the contributions and views of education stakeholders as well as various publications, including syllabi from other countries that use Thematic approach to ensure that children acquire the intended competences and are evaluated based on the identified learning outcomes.

In considering educational equity for all children, this Syllabus will be applied to all schools in Zanzibar, including government, private and community schools. I would like to extend my sincere thanks to all the stakeholders who contributed to the writing of this document including the ZIE advisory board, management and all its staff, the group of early childhood education experts, curriculum developers, educational inspectors, teachers, including retired teachers and all those involved in writing and editing this document.

I hope this Syllabus will be used by teachers and other curriculum practitioners at the level of Pre-primary Education to raise the standard of education for all schools in Zanzibar.

INTRODUCTION

The Ministry of Education and Vocational Training in Zanzibar aims to build a society with Zanzibari traditions, norms and values and enhance life by providing children with independent education to achieve national and international goals and meet the challenges posed by the 21st Century advancement of science and technology.

The Zanzibar Education Policy (2006) provides direction for education to meet the developmental needs of the Zanzibar community, including the needs of each individual learner. This policy focuses on providing quality and appropriate education in preparing children to acquire literacy, numeracy and creativity skills based on learning areas.

The Pre-primary Education Syllabus will help children learn literacy, writing, numeracy and creativity skills easily. The pre-school teachers will be able to use a variety of techniques in directing children to practice learning activities relevant to the topics/themes in their level learning areas. Such methods and practices will be applied according to the learning and teaching environment and materials.

This is an activity-based Syllabus that has collected the general learning outcomes that the Pre-primary school teacher should achieve through the implementation of specific learning outcomes in the topic/theme for each learning area. Also, the teacher can assess the child through the assessment techniques and tools contained in the Syllabus matrix. In addition, the teacher should do a formative assessment through the suggested learning activities outlined in the Syllabus matrix.

1.1 Zanzibar Philosophy of Education

1.6 Rationale for Writing the Pre-primary Education Syllabus

This Syllabus is a pre-requisite for the implementation of the 2021 Pre-primary Education Curriculum, which prepares the pre-primary child to be creative. It helps them acquire basic developmental skills that will help them learn and master primary education lessons effectively in line with the global 21st Century skills.

The fifth programme in The Zanzibar Education Development Plan (ZEDP II) Quality of Education identifies the need for reviewing and strengthening the pre-primary and primary education syllabi to promote foundations that reflect the actual learning expectations. This Syllabus translates the recommendations provided for the 2019 curriculum framework, which has focused on implementing the ZEDP II.

This Syllabus addresses all children in Zanzibar pre-primary schools, including those with special educational needs from four to five years of age. Similarly, it will be used by pre-primary school teachers, education officers, curriculum officers, examination officers, school inspectors, TC advisors, and other educational stakeholders including civil society organizations and development partners.

1.7 Cross-cutting issues in the Pre-primary Syllabus

The cross-cutting issues mentioned in this Syllabus are gender, HIV/AIDS, inclusive education and life skills, child rights, child and drug abuse, corruption, environment and financial education.

1.8 Time

According to the Zanzibar Education Policy, the pre-primary education shall be provided for two years to the four and five year's children. This means that a child is prepared to start primary school at the age of six.

1.9 Assessment of the pre-primary child progress

A child's assessment of their progress will be conducted to monitor daily changes in their learning as well as physical, mental, social and emotional development. Assessment will help the teacher to determine the child's development and quality of teaching and learning techniques. Similarly, it will help to identify the level of skills a child has acquired to plan strategies to help children with special educational needs and recommend to review the Syllabus and teaching and learning materials to suit the needs of each child.

In this level of education the child progress should not be measured by examinations and tests. A teacher should measure each child's development and learning progress step by step daily, monthly, each term and annually based on the specific learning outcomes after each topic/theme by using the assessment guide line. Finally, the teacher should record how the child is learning.

1.10 Assessment Guide in Pre-primary Education

A child development assessment should be done daily to get information on the child's learning progress. This Pre-primary Syllabus recommends observation assessment technique and daily monitoring of the child's development as it is a reliable way of showing the child's actual performance.

The teacher should monitor the child's daily activities both in and out of the classroom and keep a record of the child's progress indicators. Therefore, a day report may not provide the actual development of a child's development unless monitoring and record-keeping are required. The assessment guide will include assessment techniques and tools.

THE SYLLABUS STRUCTURE

This Syllabus consists of two main parts namely introduction and the teaching and learning matrix.

2.1 Introduction

This section provides detailed information about the Syllabus including the philosophy, purpose and objectives of education in Zanzibar. Also, it includes objectives of pre-primary education in Zanzibar, skills, content, competences, selection and sequence of the topics, learning areas and the child assessment.

2.2 Teaching and Learning Matrix

This part of the matrix shows the teaching and learning procedures designed to be conducted for each year in order to achieve the general learning outcomes. These general learning outcomes are presented before the teaching and learning matrix. The matrix is made of topic/themes, specific learning outcomes, learning activities, learning resources, assessment and the number of periods. The following is the description of what is in the columns:

2.2.1 Themes/Topics

Themes/Topics are arranged such that knowledge, skills and attitude are achieved. In addition, the arrangement focuses on the child's mental, physical, social and visual development potential. In the areas of learning, the topics and themes are arranged sequentially, from simple to complex, which will enable the child to learn more quickly.

2.2.2 Learning Outcomes

Each sub-topic/theme is written with specific learning outcomes detailing the knowledge, skills and attitudes that a child should learn. The learning outcomes focus on what the pre-primary child is expected to do after learning the particular topic/theme. The teacher is advised to consider the outcomes carefully.

2.2.3 Learning activities

The learning activities column with the participatory techniques that the teacher and the pre-primary child can use to achieve the intended goal. The teacher should use a variety of teaching and learning methods to meet the needs of each topic and the teaching environment of the particular topic. The teacher should focus their energy and expertise on engaging the child in learning using the identified activities. It is emphasized that the teacher should use the children's experiences and participatory learning techniques to facilitate effective learning.

2.2.4 Learning resources

The learning resources column shows the list of the suggested learning resources to be used in facilitating the themes. The teacher should make sure that they use the resources appropriately in order to develop the intended competence. In addition, the teacher is advised to be creative in developing and using other resources depending on the child's learning needs.

2.2.5 *Periods

This column contains the number of the estimated periods for each topic/theme. The estimation varies from one learning area to another. Each year will have two terms consisting of 21 weeks each. There will be 8 periods of 30 minutes each per day. The total number of periods per week is 40. The number of periods is determined by the size of the sub-topic/theme, the teaching and learning environment and the number of specific learning outcomes after calculating the number of hours per year. However, these suggestions for the number of periods may change depending on the teaching and learning context. The start and ending times of the periods will depend on the specific context of each place. A 55-minutes period has been dedicated for the activities in learning corners and outside the classroom. Also, there will be a 30-minutes break when children go to eat.

2.3 Thematic Approach

This is a learning approach where many aspects of the curriculum are taught together in the same content rather than separated into different subjects. Thematic approaches are usually seen to focus on the age of young children rather than the system of using subjects.

2.4 Themes

In this syllabus, a total number of 10 themes will be used in pre-primary teaching and learning for both first and second year.
